The Daily Caucasian, the organ of the fusionists, started by Marion Butler & Co., at Raleigh, made its first appearance Sunday morning.

The Savannah News thinks it is "preposterous presumption on the part of W. C. P. Breckinridge, that he should lecture people." Judging from the size of his audiences he isn't lecturing them much.

If Gen. Alger's name is ever presented as an honorary member of the Detroit, Mich., newsboys' fraternity, he will go through. His Christmas gift to them was a thousand overcoats.

There are thirteen papers in this country over 100 years old. Eight of them are in New England, four of them in New Jersey and one in Georgia, the Augusta Chronicle, which is the sixth oldest in the United States. The men who started them have retired from business. There was not much squabbling over their estates.

There are some Democrats in Vermont whose sticking qualities are superb. One who recently died at St. Albans, aged 83 years, was buried in a coffin made by a Democrat, out of wood grown on a Democrat's land, sawed at a Democrat's mill, and the undertaker and the pall-bearers were all Democrats. He could "read his title clear."

The two farmers in Jones county, Iowa, who went to law about a two dollar calf in 1878, may have had some fun, but they have also had some experience and learned a good deal about calf law. The Supreme Court recently took a whack at it and assessed the costs, $2,886.84, to the defendants. The fees of attorneys and other expenses would probably buy calves enough to stock a half dozen Texas ranches.

It is said that the Secretary of the Treasury will ask Congress to impose an additional tax of $1 a barrel on beer, and it is said the Republicans in the Senate will favor this, and at the same time oppose making any appropriation to collect the income tax. That would be just like them. The beer tax would come out of the beer drinkers, the majority of whom are poor men, while the income tax would come out of the rich. The Republican party always stands by the rich man.

The rural New York constable who was deputized to take two prisoners to the Albany penitentiary and got on such intimate terms with them that he took them to a saloon on his arrival and all got drunk together, will henceforth be chary of his hospitality These two ill mannered men drank his beer, drank him boozy drunk, then handcuffed him, tied him to the table, and departed without bidding him adieu or inviting him to call on them.

John Wanamaker has spent over half a million dollars in advertising and still keeps it up, advertising in papers in all sections of the country, although no house in the country is better known than his. Mr. Wanamaker is the man who recently refused a $50,000 presidency of a railroad because he didn't have time to spare from his business. The merchant who can't see the moral in this should immediately invest in some double barrel specks.

A patent egg compound sold in the North is made from the eggs of sea birds which are found by the million on islands along the Atlantic coast. It sells for forty cents a pound and it is said a pound of it will go as far as seventy-two hen's eggs. With most people who are not hostile to eggs, it would go a good deal further.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Proceedings of the Regular Meeting Held Last Night—A Resolution Adopted to Bond the Floating Debt of the City.

The Board of Aldermen met last night in regular monthly session, with Mayor Fishblate and Aldermen Moore, Latimer, Harriss, Northrop, VonGlahn, Gore, Yates, Nixon and Walker present.

The Mayor stated that Mr. T. W. Strange's bill, which had been first sent to the Board of Audit and Finance, had been investigated, and it was found in his report that the tax due by the First National bank was $1008, and so far Mr. Strange's bill was $393.95, which was nearly half of the amount.

A motion was made to restrain collection.

Alderman Latimer requested an explanation of the resolution passed some time ago to improve Orange street, between Third and Fourth, and that Eighth street had been improved since.

The Mayor stated that this was done under the regular appropriation, and the other street would be worked upon as soon as possible.

Alderman Moore said he saw a city cart hauling lumber to repair the Seacoast railroad platform, and entered his protest. It was explained that the streets being in bad condition this was the best way to repair them or let them go to rack.

Alderman Latimer said that he wished to call attention of Chief of Police and Mayor to the fact that a policeman was needed on Front and Orange streets on Saturday nights, as there was a disorderly crowd assembled there who impeded the progress of pedestrians. Chief of Police Clowe was requested to look after the matter.

Rev. Christmas, colored, read a long communication from the United Charities, asking for aid.

After discussion as to the right and legality of a contribution from the Board of Aldermen, it was referred to the Finance Committee and City Attorney.

Mr. H. A. Whiting stated that bond No. 23 of the Wilmington, Onslow and East Carolina Railroad had not been signed by the Mayor, Mr. Jno. J. Fowler, which was an oversight, and asked that the Board instruct the present Mayor to sign them.

Alderman Moore offered a resolution reciting the facts and authorizing Mayor Fishblate to sign the aforesaid bond. The resolution was adopted, and the Mayor signed the bond.

The Mayor stated that Aldeman E. A. Northrop's death had caused a vacancy that had not been filled. Alderman Gore nominated Mr. Dan'l D. Cameron, Alderman Walker nominated Valentine Howe, colored, and Alderman Yates nominated Mr. Joseph D. Hanby. The vote stood: Cameron, 6; Howe, 2; Hanby, 1. Mr. Cameron was declared elected as Alderman from the Fifth Ward.

Mr. P. B. Manning, City Attorney, stated that at the last meeting of the Board, the Board passed a resolution to empower him to give bond for the levy by the Sheriff on city property, but as the Board of Audit and Finance had not concurred, and the Sheriff had no power to levy on municipal property, that Mr. Strange had withdrawn his injunction, and asked him to present his bill through its proper course before this Board; stating that he meant no discourtesy by sending it to the Board of Audit and Finance first.

Alderman Harriss said he presented his bill after he slipped up in his injunction.

After argument by Aldermen Moore, VonGlhan, and Nixon, it was referred to the Finance Committee.

City Attorney Manning read the following resolution which had been drawn at the instigation of the Mayor and the chairman of the Board of Audit and Finance:

Be it resolved, By the Mayor and Board of Aldermen and the city of Wilmington, and it is hereby resolved by authority of the same, that the City Attorney be and he is hereby instructed to prepare a bill to be presented to the next session of the General Assembly, for enactment into law, which bill shall give to the city of Wilmington the power to issue coupon bonds of said city for the purpose of bonding its floating debt to an amount not exceeding fifty thousand dollars; ten thousand dollars of which shall mature at the expiration of five years from their issue, and ten thousand at the expiration of each period of five years from the date of maturity of the preceding five thousand, until the entire amount of fifty thousand dollars shall be matured, the city to have the power to call in and pay the entire amount after the expiration of ten years from their issue, said bonds to draw interest at a rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, and to contain a provision that they shall not be disposed of at less than par. And the City Attorney is instructed that, when the said bill shall be prepared and shall have been submitted to the Mayor and the Chairman of the Board of Audit and Finance, he shall forward the same to our representatives in the General Assembly, with the request that they press the same to favorable action by that body.

The Mayor said that from bonds which had never been entered on bond books during previous administrations and a deficit of $50,000 from the last administration, that something would have to be done to meet expenses, as the city two years ago was over $100,000 behind, counting bills which had lately come to light of several years back.

The resolution was referred to the Ordinance Committee.

Alderman Latimer said he would like to have the $14,400 which did not appear in the bond book and had been paid investigated, as every bond should have been kept in this book a few years back.

Alderman Nixon offered a motion to fix clause No. 9 of enactment in city ordinance. After discussion it was referred to the city attorney and Mr. E. S. Martin.

Alderman Northrop offered a resolution to approve the city attorney's bill of $100, which was carried.

Alderman Latimer said he understood there were three vacancies on the police force and heard there were some subs filling vacancies.

Mayor Fishblate stated that vacancies would be filled at a caucus to-day at 12 o'clock.

Alderman Latimer spoke of the false alarms of fire which had been turned in recently, and urged that the Fire Committee or Chief take some steps to prevent it.

Alderman VonGlahn explained the necessity of boxes, citing a case where the holder of a key was at church, causing a big fire, and said they were on the track of some of the marauders, and he hoped the $25 fine would bring them to justice.

Upon motion of Alderman Moore a committee was authorized to meet the Board of Audit and Finance and settle differences.

Mayor Fishblate and Aldermen Latimer and Northrop were appointed on the committee.

Petitions of Rufus G. Holmes and G. R. Smith for positions on the police were referred to the Police Committee.

Petition of Mr. Jerry Hand to lease property next to the reel house on Fourth street from the city for five years was referred to the Finance Committee.

The reading of a communication from the Board of Audit and Finance was laid aside and the meeting adjourned.

Communication from E. T. Wade, offering to purchase some county land was, on motion, laid on the table.

Several abatements and corrections on the tax list for 1894 were ordered.

Stephen Keys, of Federal Point township, presented a petition from himself and others for a public road, and the following resolution was submitted and adopted.

Resolved, That we declare a road to be open to the public running from the nine-mile post to Greenfield bridge, west of the present road, known as the Federal Point road, as indicated on a map presented to this Board with petition for said road, dated December 20th, 1894, and signed by Henry Taylor, John W. Canady and others.

A committee of colored citizens representing the "United Charities," appeared before the Board and presented a communication, signed by officers of the association, asking an appropriation to be used by the United Charities for the suffering poor of the colored race.

After consideration, the Board, on motion, appropriated the sum of $150 per month for the United Charities, beginning February 1st, 1895, with the understanding that none of the money so appropriated shall be used in running the business of the association, but all the money shall be used for the relief of the colored poor of the county.

On motion the Board adjourned.

BUREAU OF LABOR.

Work the Best Help for the Poor.

The Associated Charities beg to call the attention of the public to the fact that they have added to their work a Bureau of Information for workmen and for those who have work to be done. The secretary has opened a book in which is recorded the names of those who want work, together with a statement of the work they can do. We hope those who have work to be done outside of that usually performed by the regular skilled trades will leave their names and orders here.

It is needless for us to say that to give work to the poor is the best way to help them. We think there is a good deal of work in houses, stores, yards and fields waiting for the workman, if there be some well-known meeting place. We wish to make our central office this meeting place for this community and for this section of the State. Our many charitable people will please think of this whenever they have or know of any work to be done. These Bureaus of Labor have approved themselves to be experts in work for the elevation of the poor. When taken hold of by the rich and poor in any community and well managed, they have reduced pauperism one-third, establishing a fine labor test to detect laziness, and giving the self-respecting the opportunity to gain an honest support.

We beg our citizens to bear this in mind the coming year; and we also call to us the attention of all those living in the county or along the railroads running into Wilmington. Please address Miss Carrie L. Price, Secretary of Associated Charities.

FOR THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

BOARD OF AUDIT AND FINANCE.

Reply to Criticisms by the Board of Aldermen Upon Their Action in Various Matters.

The Board of Audit and Finance met yesterday afternoon in regular session. Present: Messrs. R. J. Jones (chairman), Wm. Calder, J. W. Hewett, H. C. McQueen.

A communication was read from the Board of Aldermen calling attention to the action of that Board on the bill of Herbert McClammy of $25 for legal services, and bill of M. Bellamy & Son ($50) for legal services. Also, the resolution adopted by the Board of Aldermen at a special meeting that the city give the necessary bond to stay execution on the judgment given in a magistrate's court in the case of T. W. Strange vs. City of Wilmington.

The bill of Herbert McClammy was approved.

The following, in reply to the communication from the Board of Aldermen, submitted by the chairman, was adopted, viz:

To the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of City of Wilmington:

GENTLEMEN—The Board of Audit and Finance respectfully informs your Board that we are in receipt of your communication calling our attention to sections 8 and 4 of article 2 of the City Ordinances, and in reply would beg leave to say: That the rule laid down in said sections has generally been followed by our Board, both as a matter of information before passing upon the validity of claims against the city, as well as to prevent friction in the city government. We would, however, call attention to the fact, that this Board derives its authority to pass upon the validity of all claims against the city and to approve the same, not from the Board of Aldermen but from an act of the General Assembly of the State which prescribes rules for their action, and therefore when a claim is presented it is our duty before passing upon it to satisfy ourselves by the rules set forth in said act, that it is a just and proper claim against the city before issuing a warrant for its payment; a duty that we have never failed to follow and always in accordance with our own convictions. And we would further state that the claim of Col. Strange was treated in this manner. When his claim was presented, it was laid over until the next meeting when Col. Strange made his statement regarding the matter. It was then referred to the City Attorney for further "information," so that we might understand the status of the case; the City Attorney, in our opinion, being the proper person to know of the services rendered. His report was full and explicit and after due consideration the bill was approved by our Board and a warrant issued to Col. Strange for its payment. It should be borne in mind that this case was regularly put in Col. Strange's hands by a former administration and never taken from him, and being a case outside of the duties of the City Attorney it was the Colonel's case until taken from him by the Board of Aldermen, which they failed to do, and therefore it was his duty to follow it to its close.

The bill of Mr. McClammy for appearing in a case against a policeman, which was ordered paid by the Board of Aldermen, came first before our Board and was referred to the Board of Aldermen for information.

Messrs. Bellamy & Son's bill, also ordered paid by your Board, was before our Board and disallowed, for the reason that the service rendered was for appearing in a case where the Aldermen were indicted for neglecting to keep Fourth street in good condition. Their bill was against the city for defending two of the Aldermen, namely Messrs. Northrop & Harriss, whereas Mr. McClammy had been paid a fee of $50 (upon the personal recommendation of the Mayor) for defending the Board of Aldermen in the same suit. We thought that this case also came within the scope of the city attorney's duties; but as Mr. McClammy claimed to have won the case for the city, and, as his claim was urgently recommended by the Mayor in person, our Board supposing that this was the end of the matter, approved the bill of Mr. McClammy and ordered it paid. These are our reasons "for approving one and not the others." With regard to the bonds complained of—which fell due in 1887 and by law would not have been out of date until 1897, they were regular in every respect, except the fact that the coupons had not been "cut" since 1870. They were signed by John Dawson, Mayor, and T. W. Anderson, Treasurer, and were as familiar to some members of the Board as any bonds ever issued by the city. Bonds and coupons were paid. No interest was paid after maturity and none asked for. That they were not reported among the liabilities of the city had nothing to do with their validity. The fact remains that they did appear on the bond book as out-standing and unpaid and it was the duty of the city to pay them when presented.

While our Board fully recognizes the fact that harmony of action is the best policy for both Boards, as well as for the best interests of the city, we are not willing to admit that it is within the power of the Board of Aldermen to pass ordinances for the government of this Board, while in the discharge of their official duties, and would call attention to section 5 of the Act establishing the Board of Audit and Finance.

"Sec. 5. It shall be the duty of said Board to audit and pass upon the validity of all claims and demands against the city of Wilmington, and no claim or demand against said city shall be paid by the Treasurer of said city, or by any other person, out of any funds belonging to said city, until the same has has been duly audited and approved by said Board, and a warrant, signed by the chairman and clerk, given for the payment of the same. All claims, demands and accounts presented to said board to be audited shall be treated and proceeded with in all respects as is provided in section 19, chap. 27, of Battle's Revisal, in reference to claims or accounts against counties. Any member of said Board who shall knowingly vote to allow any false, fraudulent or untrue claim or demand against said city, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine not less than $500 and by imprisonment for not less than one year."

And also the concluding paragraph of section 6, as follows:

"All warrants which may be drawn on account of any duly audited claim or demand shall specify the particular fund from which the same is to be paid, and no such warrant shall be paid from any other fund than the one designated therein; and if any such warrant shall be paid, in violation of this provision, or if any claim against said city shall be paid or be recorded on any account of any indebtedness to said city before a proper warrant for the same has been issued, the treasurer of said city or any other person paying the same out of any funds belonging to said city shall be liable for the amount so paid and shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

The resolution adopted by the Board of Aldermen at a called meeting authorizing the Mayor and City Treasurer (with the approval of the Board of Audit and Finance) to give the bond necessary to stay execution on the judgment in the case of T. W. Strange vs. The City of Wilmington, was, on motion of Mr. Calder, laid on the table.

Bills were audited and approved as follows: Current expenses, $5,891.47. Refunded taxes, $24.25; note, $3,500, paid Atlantic Bank.

The Board then adjourned.

OPERA HOUSE.

Richard Mansfield in "A Parisian Romance" To-night.

To-night at the Opera House, Mr. Richard Mansfield will present by general request, "A Parisian Romance." At no time in the history of the American stage has there been a man who in such a short period has raised himself to the most dignified and exalted point in his profesion as has Mr. Mansfield. He stands to-day head and shoulders over any actor on the English-speaking stage, a perfect model to his army of imitators.

MRS. JAMES B. POTTER AND KYLE BELLEW FRIDAY EVENING.

In their tour through India and the English Colonies generally, Mrs. Potter and Mr. Bellew have made not only innumerable friends, but much money. Leaving Yokohoma, they dismissed their English Company and opened in 'Frisco shortly after with an American Company that had been engaged for them in New York by their manager.

Their tour in America will extend over a period of fifty weeks, during which time they will play in all the largest cities of the country. The date of their engagement here is at the Opera House on Friday night January 11th in their latest and most successful production "Charlotte Corday."

The box sheet for this performance opens Wednesday morning at Yates'.

Burpee's Farm Annual.

Messrs. W. Atlee Burpee & Co., seed growers, of Philadelphia, have issued their "Farm Annual" for 1895.

The cover is most artistic and beautiful, lithographed in ten colors, it shows on the front an attractive bouquet of the new Sweet Peas, now so fashionable, while on the rear is a bird's eye view of Fordhook Farm, where many of Burpee's seeds are grown and where there were conducted the past season more than six thousand trials of vegetables and flowers grown from seed. Messrs. W. Atlee Burpee & Co. make the nominal charge of 10c for the Farm Annual, which is less than actual cost of publication, but will be pleased to mail a copy free to any of our readers who intend to purchase seeds this spring.

"The Eyes."

It should not be forgotten that to-night Dr. Galloway will give his talk on "The Eyes," at the Y. M. C. A. building, and that all men are freely invited to attend. This will not be a lecture as usually given but more in the nature of a conversation. Any one in the audience is invited, and requested to ask any questions on the subject that may interest him. It will be a plain, common sense description of the construction of this delicate organ, with some directions as to its use and warnings as to its abuse. The talk begins at 8 o'clock.

An Unfortunate Mistake.

The arrest of Mr. Chas. Eilers Saturday night, for stealing a side of meat as stated in the STAR Sunday, was an unfortunate mistake. He was released Sunday morning upon representations by a member of the firm of Vollers & Hashagen that the meat was not stolen; had been charged to Mr. Eilers and he forgot to take it with him when he went home in the evening and returned for it late in the night. He has been in the employ of the firm over a year and still enjoys their complete confidence. The policemen, under the circumstances, are not blamed for making the arrest.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Three Ways of Preparing the Toothsome Oyster.

OYSTER PATES.—Line small pate pans with puff paste; roll cover somewhat thicker than lining; put in each of the pans a piece of bread to support the cover while baking. Make a white sauce of one tablespoon of butter, two tablespoons flour and one pint of cream. Cut the oysters into small bits and cook them in the sauce over boiling water. Carefully remove the upper crusts; fill with the hot oysters and serve at once.

OYSTER SALAD—Take half a gallon of fresh oysters, the yolks of six hard-boiled eggs, one raw egg well beaten, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a tablespoonful of mustard, with pepper and salt, a teacup of vinegar and four bunches of celery. Drain the liquid from the oysters and put some hot vinegar over them, mash the yolks of the eggs and mix all the seasonings together and pour over the oysters and celery.

TO FRY OYSTERS.—Use the largest and best oysters; lay them in a row upon a clean cloth and press another upon them, to absorb the moisture, have ready several beaten eggs, and in another dish some finely crushed crackers; in the frying pan heat enough butter to entirely cover the oysters; dip the oysters first into the eggs, then into the crackers, rolling it or them over, that they may become well encrusted; drop into the granite frying pan and fry quickly to a light brown. Serve dry and let the dish be warm.

FROM RALEIGH.

Members of the General Assembly Arriving—Four Candidates for Speaker—Walser in the Lead—Many Applicants for Minor Offices.

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, January 7.—The city is filling up rapidly with members of the Legislature. Many have arrived, including French and Rice, of your county. McClammy is expected to-morrow. The four candidates for Speaker—Walser, Lusk and French, (Republicans) and White and Heilman (Populists)—are here with their friends. Walser is apparently in the lead. The Republicans of the House, and probably of the Senate, will hold a preliminary caucus or conference to-morrow morning to decide as to a joint caucus. It is said the Republicans are claiming that as they have a majority they should have the long Senatorial term, but the indications point to Butler. Ewart has a great many friends.

The candidates for minor offices are legion. One candidate for Speaker said he had already a basket-full of letters. Dockery and Mott seem both to be active participants in the general melee.

The Governor completed his message to-day.

The sheriffs of Jones and Carteret paid their State taxes to-day. The former, $2761.10; the latter, $3809.42.

Edwards, of Granville, and White, of Alamance, are candidates for Mason's railroad commissionership.

Large blocks of granite for the base of the Confederate monument arrived to-day, and work will begin at once.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 7.—[By Southern Associated Press.]—The wire-working has begun on the assembling of the members of the Legislature to meet here Wednesday. The chief figures are Congressmen-elect Pearson and Settle, pushing respectively Pritchard and Holton. Besides these candidates are Ewart, Mott, Dockery, with Boyd, of Greensboro, as a dark horse.

It is pretty generally conceded that Marion Butler, the Populist leader, will be the long term Senator, and that for the short term it is Pritchard against the field. There is much feeling growing as to joint or separate caucus, the old-time Republicans holding out for the separate caucuses, which Mr. Butler will fight. Upon this discussion and its settlement hangs probably much friction and unlooked for happenings.

WILLMINGTON, N. C.

THIS IS SUGGESTIVE.

It is said that the Massachusetts Manufacturing Company which is going to build a $600,000 auxiliary establishment in Alabama, and the Dwight Manufacturing Company which is going to build a $500,000 branch factory in the same State will manufacture the same lines of goods that they do in their home mills, but will manufacture for export.

This is a practical admission that goods for the export trade can be manufactured to better advantage in the South than they can be in Massachusetts where the art of manufacturing cotton cheaply has been mastered, and is as thoroughly understood as it is anywhere in the world. When such firms conclude that to hold their foreign trade it is necessary to get nearer to the cotton fields, it is tantamount to saying that the American manufacturers who expect to do a business with foreign countries must follow their example and put their spindles and looms among the cotton fields, and we may, therefore, reasonably look for the transfer of many New England plants to the South, or for the erection of New England manufactories of branch establishments in this section.

The competition will henceforth not be so much between American mills as between American and English mills, the former of which will ere long become active and perhaps formidable competitors of the Englishmen who in past years have had an almost unquestioned monopoly of foreign markets. The New England manufacturer understands the situation and knows that to succeed in this competition he must reduce the cost of production to the minimum, and to do this that he must get close to the raw material and save the cost of transportation, which is equivalent to about five dollars a bale on cotton shipped to the New England mills. Five dollars taken off the bale of cotton will enable him to reduce the cost of the goods made from it just that much, and when thousands of bales are consumed this will make a pretty big item. But the English manufacturer has to pay freight across the ocean, if he buys from America, and the manufacturer who operates near the cotton fields has the advantage of him in that.

The Englishman understands the situation too, and will seek his cotton where he can get it the cheapest, and is hence endeavoring to extend the area of cotton-growing on the Nile and will look to Southern Siberia for much of his supplies; but even then the Southern manufacturer will have the advantage of the English manufacturer, for he will have no freight to pay on his raw material while his competitor will have, no matter where he buys.

This movement by New England companies to put up branch establishments in the South is not the first step in that direction which has been taken, for it has been going on for several years, although on a less extensive scale. A number of New England manufacturers had preceded the two companies above referred to in securing a foot-hold in the South. There is in the aggregate, we suppose, several millions of New England money invested in cotton mills in the South, and this isn't anything in comparison to what will be invested in the future, and not in the very distant future either.

If there is anything in this world that the New Englander has a scent on (and we do not say this in disparagement) it is the dollar. He can trail it as quickly as any man living, and there is no living man who will give it a hotter chase to prevent it from getting away from him. That's what he considers business and that is his way of doing it, and that's what accounts for the interest he takes in our cotton fields and his desire to get near them. Southern men may build cotton mills and will continue to build them, but we wouldn't consider it rash to predict that from this time for the next ten years there will be as much, if not more, Northern money put into cotton mills in the South than there will be of Southern money. It may not come with a rush, and we do not think it will, but it will come in large quantities and continue to come for years. They have plenty of money up there; they are seeking investment for it, and naturally they will be the most disposed to invest it in the business with which they are the most familiar. They may put some into other enterprises, but most of it will be put into cotton factories and most of it means not thousands but millions, and many millions.

The Baltimore News published an item not long ago that it knew of movements in the North to invest $12,000,000 in Southern manufacturing enterprises. We do not think that there is anything surer in the futurities than that the South is soon to become the cotton manufacturing section of this continent, and eventually of the world.

MINOR MENTION.

A New Orleans dispatch published in the STAR Sunday states that the cotton factors of that city have signed an agreement to assist in the movement for a reduction of the cotton acreage. The dispatch does not state just what they propose to do, but the scheme is on the right line if it can be carried out. It is perhaps too much to expect that 75 per cent. of the planters in 95 per cent. of the cotton-growing counties will go into it, but if they do or a number approximating this do, the object will be accomplished. If the planters look at it right and consider their own interests as they should, they should require no persuasion to convince them that a reduction of acreage is the only way out of the woods. If they carry out this plan it will not only ensure better prices for the next crop, but the announcement that they have done so will raise the prices of what is still on hand of this crop. No plan that does not provide for a material reduction of the acreage will amount to anything. But if there be a reduction of acreage of reasonable proportions, and the land taken from cotton be planted in grain, grass, &c, the planter will be on top next year, and while he pursues this course will stay on top.

***

The present indications are that the next Senate will stand 43 Republicans, 37 Democrats and 8 Populists, which gives the Populists the balance of power. The Republicans will lack two of a majority which will put it out of their power to carry out any distinctly party measure, and the Democrats would have to secure the co-operation of all the Populists to give them a majority on any question that came to a vote, so that we may not look for any strictly partisan legislation. Whatever the purposes of the Republicans in the House might be their hands will be tied by the Senate if they attempt anything of a partisan order. The Democrats will probably permit the Republicans to organize the Senate, making them responsible for legislation proposed or carried out. They can do nothing without the co-operation of some Democrats or some of the Populists and this will make them go slow and be conservative in spite of themselves. If they should propose anything that would bring relief to the people, it is to be hoped that the Democrats will not follow their example in this Congress and antagonize it from a party standpoint, with the hope of making political capital. There should be no obstruction of the public business. Only vicious measures should be antagonized.

The report comes from Washington that the fate of the Carlisle bill in the House is doubtful and that the Eastern Democrats, with few exceptions, will vote with the Republicans, Populists and free silver Democrats against it. We think, however, that it will pass the House, but have little hope that it will pass the Senate, for under the rules of the Senate it can be hung up indefinitely even if a majority be in faver of it. There it has to encounter the opposition of the Republicans, Populists and some Eastern Democrats. The Eastern Democrats who are antagonizing this measure, and would probably antagonize any measure providing for an expansion of the currency, or the establishment of State banks are doing the Democratic party a great deal of harm, whether they think so or not, quiet as much as the Sugar Trust Senators did in the last session of Congress. They are giving color to the assertion so often made by the Populist leaders that the people have nothing to expect from the Eastern Democracy, which stands solid with the Republicans on financial measures, and they are doing very much, too, to draw the sectional line in the party and build up a Southern-Western party, and division on that line in the party means defeat. In our opinion the action of these Eastern Democrats is not good finances, and we are sure it is not good politics.

The German Richstag expelled a member recently for perjuring himself to "save a woman's honor." The Prince of Wales once did likewise and his associates thought he did the correct thing and "lied like a gentleman."

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Somebody remarks that the American workman has $1,700,000,000 laid up in savings banks for a rainy day. Yet that same rainy day might see him with another man's umbrella.—Phil. Times, Ind.

—— We cannot see why the President should wish to call an extra session of Congress. We have had too much Congress for the last year. Less politics and more work in the cornfield are what the country needs. Take up the shovel and the hoe and lay down the fiddle and the bow for 1895; it will pay.—Norfolk Landmark, Dem

—— The London Times is not given to rainbow-chasing in its financial and commercial horoscopes, and when so careful and conservative an authority declares that "trade in the aggregate may be said to have turned the corner in a series of lean years" its judgment will command respect in the financial world. England's lean years set in even earlier than our own—with the Bering failure, in fact—and the hopeful feelings now current in that country, which, as the Times adds, are "mainly directed to the early improvement of the American markets on a better assured basis, secured by the tariff settlement and a better financial position," may be depended upon to find expression on this side of the water in advance of the season for the opening of Spring trade.—Phil. Record, Dem.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Asheville Citizen: Mrs. Eva N Blair, wife of Alderman William A. Blair, died at her residence on Haywood street last evening, after an illness continuing for several months.

— Jonesboro Progress: Rev. J. P. McPherson, a Presbyterian minister, 86 years of age, died near Salem church in this county, December 20th. He had been in the active work of the ministry 58 years, when about three years ago he became unable to preach.

— Raleigh Visitor: Gov. Carr to-day commuted the death sentence of Fred Floyd, of Henderson county, to 25 years imprisonment in the penitentiary. Floyd submitted to a verdict for rape, the State agreeing that a verdict of guilty should be entered and that then the application for the above named commutation should be made.

— Raleigh News and Observer: Alexander Brown, aged 72, an inmate of the Soldiers' Home, died yesterday morning. —— Mrs. M. L. Hall died at her home in Louisburg yesterday afternoon. —— The Gazette, the negro organ published by Jim Young, states that the city of Raleigh will be gerrymandered so that the election of Mayor will be put into the hands of the people. It is said that ex-Postmaster A. W. Shaffer has already written the plan for the redistricting of the city.

— Winston Sentinel: On New Year's night, Mrs. Dan Andrews, of North Wilkesboro, quietly left her room, going a short distance from her home, and cut her throat. With the blood streaming from the wound she went a few hundred yards further and threw herself into a pond and was drowned. She was soon missed by the family. After a short search her bloody tracks were discovered leading to the pond and she was taken from her watery grave. Ill health is the only cause to which the rash deed can be attributed, as her home was a happy and prosperous one.

— Southport Leader: The dead body of a colored woman was found on last Sunday evening in the woods near the house of J. D. McRae, in the upper part of this county. The woman had worked hard all day on the Friday previous, and startfor home at night, she had been given a pint of whiskey. From the position of the body when found it is evident that the combined effects of the bitter cold weather of that day and the whiskey had confused her, and she hand wandered about, walking through pools of water, as the lower portions of her clothing was heavy with ice, and finally succumbing to the weather was frozen to death. The woman was married, and left a large family of children.

WHEN I WAS A BOY.

Up in the attic where I slept
 When I was a boy—a little boy—
In through the lattice the moonlight crept,
Bringing a tide of dreams that swept
Over the low, red trundle bed,
Bathing the tangled curly head,
While moonbeams played at hide and seek
With dimples on each sun browned cheek—
 When I was a boy—a little boy!

And, oh! the dreams—the dreams I dreamed
 When I was a boy—a little boy—
For the grace that through the lattice streamed
Over my folded eyelids seemed
To have the gift of prophecy
And to bring me glimpses of times to be
Where manhood's clarion seemed to call—
Ah! that was the sweetest dream of all,
 When I was a boy—a little boy!

I'd like to sleep where I used to sleep
 When I was a boy—a little boy—
For in at the lattice the moon would peep,
Bringing her tide of dreams to sweep
The crosses and griefs of the years away
From the heart that is weary and faint today,
And those dreams should give me back again
The peace I have never known since then—
 When I was a boy—a little boy!

BUYING PRECIOUS STONES.

Some of the Valuable Gems and What They Are Made Of.

Buying jewels is as hazardous as buying horses, and could anything possibly be more risky than the latter? White sapphires have occasionally been sold as diamonds, and as proof that white topas may easily be confused with them one has only to recall the fact that the largest diamond in the world, the Braganza, belonging to the crown of Portugal and valued at £58,000,000, is by many considered to be only a topaz. Carbon, in a pure crystallized state, is in every color of the rainbow, red, orange, green, blue and even black, and occasionally the colored are as valuable as a brilliant of the same size.

The jewels next in hardness to the diamond are the sapphire and the ruby, called by experts corundum, or crystallized clay. Blue corundum is called sapphire; red, ruby; green, oriental emerald; orange, oriental topaz, and violet, oriental amethyst. The word oriental distinguishes these from real emerald, topas and amethyst, which are distinct minerals.

The largest and most famous ruby in the world forms part of the imperial state crown made for Queen Victoria in 1838. It is believed that this ruby was worn in front of the helmet of Henry V at Agincourt.

The most precious sapphires and rubies, when cut and polished, show rays from the center to the sides in the form of a six pointed star. On this account they are called star sapphires or rubies. It is difficult to produce a gem upon these stones on account of their exceeding hardness, but there are a few good intaglios and cameos extant in both—one, a cameo head of Cupid, by Isler, one a sapphire; another, a front face cameo head of Diana on a ruby, by Pistrucci.

Topaz is the next jewel in degree of hardness. It consists of about half clay, one-third flint and the rest fluoric acid. The best are yellow, with sometimes a greenish tinge. Some found in Brazil are perfectly colorless and are called "novamina" diamonds. They are more brilliant when polished than any jewel. There are a few blue topazes found—these are taken by the uninitiated for sapphires.—Philadelphia Press.

An Expert Opinion.

An old watchman, who used to keep guard in the department of justice, from long association with the legal lights in the building believed he had imbibed a fair share of learning in the law, and so when one night a telegram addressed to the attorney general came after hours he had no hesitancy in opening it and reading its message. It asked the question, "Is a man to be held responsible for a crime committed while under the influence of liquor?" The watchman pondered over this message for some time, and, as he knew what the influence of liquor was, he sent the laconic answer: "No indeed. (Signed) John Jones, in charge of department of justice." Of course there was an immediate attack on the attorney general for such a decision, and the matter came to the ears of the department. An investigation was made and the watchman suspended for three months. That did not worry him, however. With effrontery that simply dumfounded the clerks, he came to the building every pay day during that time of suspension and drew his salary.—Kate Field's Washington.

A Queer Postoffice.

One of the strangest postoffices in the world is away down at Terra del Fuego, in the toe end of the big shoe, which is what the map of South America looks like. The "office" is a big barrel, and it is fastened to a rock overlooking the straits of Magellan. Every ship that rounds Cape Horn stops at this odd postoffice. A boat puts out to the shore with letters to be left, and the sailor who takes them looks over those already in the barrel, taking out and bringing away with him any that his ship can forward to their destination. Then he fastens the cover on the barrel with its hook and staple, and the queer old postoffice that needs no postmaster or mailbags is left to itself until the next ship comes by.—New York Times.

Preserving Wood.

It is said that wood may be thoroughly preserved by being impregnated with a strong solution of calcium bisulphate and afterward with caustic lime. The pores are thus filled with the two solutions, which are oxidized by exposure to the air and become practically a part of the wood itself.

Hannibal was ruined by marriage. After his first victorious campaigns in Italy he went into winter quarters at Capua, where he married, and the wedding festivities lasted until his army was demoralized, and always afterward was worthless for fighting purposes.

A decapitated snail, kept in a moist place, will in a few weeks grow a new head quite as serviceable and good looking as that which was taken away.

The Night Conductor's Courtship.

The conductors on the night runs are usually more genial than those who look after the fares in the daytime. Just why this should be so is not quite clear, but the fact that most of them conduct affairs of the heart with young women who are engaged in domestic service during the daytime may have something to do with it. In making assignments the aim usually is to put the married men on the day runs and the single men on at night. As soon as the evening dishes are out of the way the lady in whom he is interested boards his car, and between one end of the line and the other they manage to have a lengthy tete-a-tete. The gripman is more fortunately situated than the conductor in this respect, as his little chats are not subject to frequent interruptions, as the conductor's are.—Chicago Tribune.

Many Kinds of Days In One.

A mean solar day is the average or mean of all the apparent solar days in a year. Mean solar time is that shown by a well regulated clock or watch, while apparent solar time is that shown by a well constructed sundial. The difference between the two at any time is the equation of time and may amount to 16 minutes and 21 seconds. The astronomical day begins at noon, and the civil day at the preceding midnight. The sidereal and mean solar days are both invariable, but one day of the latter is equal to 1 day 3 minutes and 56.555 seconds of the former.

THE BLACK BOTTLE.

ONE OF THE SUPERSTITIONS OF BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.

Belief That Its Contents Are Used to Remove Uninteresting Patients—The Fatal Bed Superstition—Ignorant Rounders Spread Silly Stories.

No one can be an inmate of Bellevue hospital for any length of time without hearing of the famous "black bottle." The superstition connected with it is very grewsome, yet it is believed in implicitly by many of the patients. Briefly told, it is as follows:

The opinion is prevalent among the poor that Bellevue hospital is a school of experiment for the instruction of young surgeons and physicians, and that only cases of peculiar novelty and interest are wanted there. If a patient happens to be a good subject for the operating table or clinical lecture, he or she is welcome to all that institution affords; otherwise the sooner the poor creature makes room for a more interesting patient the better. Nor are the physicians and nurses supposed to entertain any scruples of conscience as to the means they employ in effecting such removals. In cases of lingering sickness where there is no hope of an ultimate recovery they are supposed to hasten the end by administering a fatal dose out of the mysterious black bottle. After taking it the patient falls asleep never to awaken.

This superstition originated from the fact that morphine and other drugs of a poisonous character used in the hospital are always kept in bottles of a particularly suspicious appearance. They are made of dark blue glass, with a corrugated surface, and are distinguished by flaming red labels, on which is printed the emblem of a skull and crossbones, flanked by the word "Poison." Now, it frequently happens that morphine is administered to those who are dying of painful diseases in order to mitigate the severity of their sufferings, but the ignorant patients around do not understand this. They see the nurse take the dreaded black bottle from the medicine chest, measure out a portion of its contents in a glass and give it to their comrade to drink. Then they shake their heads ominously and whisper to one another in frightened tones.

"They are giving him the black bottle. Poor fellow, they are tired of him! He's been occupying wanted room, but he'll be on his way to the morgue soon enough now."

When the sick man dies, the other patients do not attribute his death to natural causes, but to the mysterious poison contained in the black bottle. No amount of reasoning could convince them otherwise. Once a nurse tried to argue an old patient out of the superstition, but he maintained his belief in it as obstinately as ever and answered:

"Don't tell me. I'll believe my own eyes sooner than what other folks say. If there isn't death in the black bottle, why is it marked with a skull and crossbones? And why is 'Poison' printed on it? Tell me that."

It is needless to say that the bottles containing poisonous drugs are so labeled to insure the safety of the patients. The corrugated surface is a further precautionary measure, for no one could be mistaken, even in the dark, as to what such a vial contained. The sense of touch would warn the nurse where that of sight might fail. In Bellevue hospital the greatest care is exercised over poisonous drugs. They are kept under lock and key in a strong closet specially prepared for them in the pharmacy, and the door is furnished with an automatic arrangement that rings an electric bell whenever it is opened.

The black bottle superstition is by no means the only one associated with hospitals. There are certain beds in almost every hospital that are considered unlucky. The old hospital rounders know them and are probably responsible for keeping alive the superstition concerning them. A hospital rounder is a person who makes capital out of a chronic ailment. He makes the rounds of the hospitals in precisely the same way that the habitual vagrant makes the rounds of the police station lodging houses. He is pretty well posted on the affairs of the institutions that have harbored him and takes particular pains to impart his information to the other patients. He treasures in his memory every grewsome detail that comes to his notice and that may serve to embellish his stories. If a new patient happens to be brought to the ward of which he is an inmate and laid on the cot that is supposed to be unlucky, he takes advantage of the first opportunity to steal to his side and whisper: "Get them to move yer outer that bed as soon as yer can. Ye're courtin death to lie there. Five have died in it the past fortnight."

Such an announcement cannot fail to inspire the newcomer with terror, especially if he is not educated above the belief in superstitions, yet if the ward is full he is compelled to occupy the unlucky cot, a prey to the most gloomy forebodings. The unlucky bed is always that in which the greatest number of deaths have occurred, and there is generally one in each ward that can claim such a distinction.—New York Press.

Bicycles For Next Year.

The narrower bicycle tread to be brought out next year will undoubtedly increase the propelling force of the rider through the greater weight he will be enabled to place upon the pedals and because of the increased leverage he can use when applying the force in a more direct line. Some riders prefer the broad tread, but the tendency is toward narrowness within the proper limitations, which is generally regarded as about five inches. Racing wheels will probably be somewhat lighter next year, although the belief is common that the minimum weight, when commensurate with safety, has been reached. One bicycle weighing as little as ten pounds has been made, but it is very doubtful if it will have any practical use, and it is only used now as an illustration of how light a wheel can be made and yet support a rider. The better grades of roadsters will also be lighter next year, as a rule, but it is understood that there will be no structural changes save in the narrowing of the distance between the pedals, says Stoves and Hardware Reporter.

THE SILENCE CURE.

A Physician Who Says Women Hurt Their Nerves by Talking Too Much.

"I have two or three patients who are ill with nervous prostration, and who could be cured if they would stop talking," said a nerve specialist the other day. "They waste their nerve tissue as fast as I can supply it, and they are on the verge of hysterics and acute nervous pain all the time. A woman, if she be inclined to talk too much, should time herself just as she would take medicine and allow herself only just so many minutes of talk.

"Now, the other day a woman who is troubled with insomnia came into my office for treatment. She had been taking drugs. She told me about her troubles, and her tongue ran like the clapper of a farmhouse bell at dinner time. I thought she never would let up. Finally I stopped her.

"'Do you talk as much as that very often, madam?' I asked.

"She drew herself up and said in an offended tone: 'This is no laughing matter, doctor, I assure you. I am worn out from lack of sleep, and though my family do all things possible to divert my mind and I make calls and see people all the time I get steadily worse. I am worn to a shadow. Why, last summer'—

"And so her tongue rattled on until I again had to stop her.

"'Now, listen to my prescription,' I said. 'Go home and keep still. Don't talk. Time your tongue waggings. At breakfast allow your husband to read the newspaper without interruption. After breakfast sew a little in your own room. Read as much as you please. Walk long distances if you are strong enough. Do not make any calls. At dinner talk all you please, but spend a quiet evening. If you go to the theater, do not talk much during the play. Exercise a little self denial. It will be hard at first, for you are a chatterer, but if you persevere you will succeed, and your nervous system will get rest.'

"What did she say to that? Well, I do not think she liked it. But if she took me seriously I think I can cure her in a month.

"Do I have many such cases? Well, I should say I did. It is almost safe to declare that there never is a case of real acute nervousness unless the woman is a talker. With a man it is different. He may worry himself into insanity or complete loss of brain power if his business goes wrong. But the very nervous woman is seldom a worrier. She is the woman of leisure with a small family—few in numbers, I mean—to direct. She buys their food, their clothing, hires the servants and 'keeps house.' She has no real worries. But does she think she has? Oh, dear, yes! She thinks she has more to do than any other woman of her acquaintance.

"'Keep quiet a few hours every day, and you will be a well woman,' is what I tell half my woman patients. When I can persuade them to try it, they come back and say, 'Why, doctor, I haven't been nervous enough to fly since I began to try your queer prescription.'"—New York Sun.

RADCLIFFE'S FIRST REPORT.

It Is More Than Satisfactory to the Friends of Higher Education For Women.

Brief, businesslike and to the point is the first report which Radcliffe college, through its officers, makes to the public. In four pages Mrs. Agassiz, the president, tells the now familiar story of the transformation of the Harvard annex into a college last spring and announces the foundation of a scholarship by an anonymous giver in the name of "Widow Johanna Hoar" of Braintree, a contemporary of Anne Radcliffe. Mrs. Hoar was the mother of President Leonard Hoar of Harvard and ancestress of the Concord Hoars and of the Adamses and Quincys.

The report of Mr. Henry L. Higginson, the treasurer, shows that on Aug. 1 the college had $165,000 in securities and cash, while from the regent's account it appears that last year the fees for tuition alone paid for all the salaries and current expenses and left a surplus. The Perkins bequest already amounts to $100,000, the Sweetser bequest will be at least $40,000 and the Parker bequest more than $70,000. Three funds of $5,000 each for scholarships have been given since the incorporation, together with other gifts. A unique gift is that of the lawyer employed to oppose the incorporation of the college, who presents to it the retainer paid to him.

By far the most important portion of the report of the regent, Mr. Gilman, is that showing the increase in the amount of the instruction given to the young women since the "annex" has been brought into closer connection with Harvard. It is an effective answer to all who have looked on the union as a matter of form merely that 166 courses of instruction are open to women this year, compared with 111 last year, an increase of 50 per cent, and that 68 of these courses are for graduates, 51 of them being courses in Harvard university, in which women graduates work in the same class with men. The other courses are all repetitions by Harvard instructors to women alone of courses regularly given in Harvard.

In Sanskrit, in romance philology, Italian, Spanish, comparative literature, music, physics, astronomy, botany, zoology and American archæology—all that Harvard offers to its men is offered to the women of Radcliffe. The same is practically true of the Semitic languages, of English, Germanic philology, philosophy, history and mathematics, where Radcliffe's courses very nearly equal in number those of Harvard. The divergence in the number of courses is greatest in the departments of classical philology, German, French, economics, chemistry and geology. In the case of the first three the difference is more apparent than real, for in them Harvard can afford to give parallel undergraduate courses of the same degree of difficulty, which Radcliffe cannot. In the case of the others the difference is due either to the fact that a department at Harvard is undermanned or to the lack of laboratory facilities at Radcliffe. Still it is perfectly fair to say that Radcliffe college now offers to women substantially what Harvard offers to men, and that the day is not far off when it can offer identically the same instruction. To attain this object money is needed, and the report points out how it can be used—for laboratories, for a fireproof library, for more scholarships, for the means to house the students more cheaply, for a gymnasium, for more recitation rooms.

The total number of students last year was 255, of whom 100 were candidates for the bachelor degree. Twenty-two bachelors and three masters of arts graduated last June. The special students are to a great degree really specialists and often graduates of other women's colleges.

The work of giving women a collegiate education in Cambridge has now been carried on for 16 years at a wonderfully small cost, largely through the self devotion and personal sacrifice of the teachers and the men and women associated with them. The new college, now officially under the wing of Harvard, is still in the same hands. Every friend of the higher education of woman will wish it continued success.—New York Sun.

Linguistic Pundits of Glasgow.

The great controversy over the best title for the lady doctor is still convulsing the pundits of Glasgow. A commotion has been created of late by one of our correspondents' eager advocacy of the word "doctorein," and already urgent appeals are being addressed to those in authority "not to add another anomaly to our already most irregular language. 'Doctorein,'" continues this writer, "sounds all right, but it does not look well." We should have said that it sounded vile and looked abominable, but there is no accounting for tastes. The same writer suggests "doctorine," or, more agonizing still, "physicienne," which, he adds, is bound to come into use as the feminine form of physician. Other suggestions are "doctorina," and in the case of married medical ladies "doctora."—London Globe.

Queen Victoria Crippled.

The fact is regretfully admitted by those close to the queen that her majesty must remain almost a cripple the rest of her days. It was hoped for weeks she would recover the use of her limbs after her severe attack of rheumatism in August, but her disability became chronic, and it is believed she never again will be able to walk more than a few steps at a time. It is impossible for her to step up or down, even in or out of her carriage, and an inclined gangway is now provided for the latter purpose. A specially designed chair has been provided for carrying her majesty up and down stairs.—London Correspondent.

Women and the Schools.

Mayor Elect Strong of New York says women shall have a representation on the board of education. That is right. Good, clear headed women will exercise a wholesome influence.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The German War Balloon.

The new German war balloon is, according to all accounts, a "fearful looking thing." The German, like the French, war balloons have almost double the lifting capacity of the English. To facilitate taking observations the car is hung a great distance below the balloon, sometimes as much as 40 feet.

Well Placed.

"Did the colonel ever pay you that bill he owed you?"

"Never."

"What's he doing now?"

"President of a collection agency."—Atlanta Constitution.

CATARRH IN CHILDREN

For over two years my little girl's life was made miserable by a case of Catarrh. The discharge from the nose was large, constant and very offensive. Her eyes became inflamed, the lids swollen and very painful. After trying various remedies, I gave her S.S.S. The first bottle seemed to aggravate the disease, but the symptoms soon abated, and in a short time she was cured.

Encyclopædia Britannica.

Not Condensed
Not Revised,

—BUT—

The Great
And Only
ENCYCLOPAEDIA
Britannica.

Complete in 25 Volumes

The Encyclopædia Britannica is not only a complete compendium of all knowledge, but it is a dictionary of biography, a record of inventions, a history of discoveries, a calendar of dates, a registry of events, a glossary of technical and scientific terms, a collection of mathematical, chemical, and mechanical formulas, a handbook of law, a medical guide.

Best Atlas in the World.

The most thorough and reliable key to business knowledge, a manual of games, sports and amusements, a thesaurus of statistics, a history of all countries and people, a storehouse of criticism, a treasury of curious learning, a vade mecum for the household and farm, as for the office and library, a repertory of useful information. If the professional or the business man should undertake to put upon his library shelves the special treaties, which would cover as wide a range of topics as those gathered in the Britannica, relating to his own pursuits, his purchases would extend over scores of volumes, some of them rare and expensive, and many of them not brought down to date.

Of all the works of reference now in the market, the Encyclopædia Britannica is not only the most comprehensive, but by far the cheapest, even at

The Original Price of $8 Per Volume.

Heretofore this work could be obtained only at a great cost—from $125 to $200. It is now, for the first time, placed within reach of the masses. A saving of only 15 cents a day gives you this never-failing fountain of knowledge. Is it not worth such a slight effort to obtain it?

The STAR will for a short time furnish this great work in Cloth binding at $1.60 per volume; in full sheep at $2.20 per volume, and will deliver the whole set upon payment of $5 cash, giving you long time to pay the balance.

The purchase of any Encyclopædia short of the best is not only bad judgment, but worse economy. The STAR will furnish you this, the greatest literary production of the century, at one-third the former price and on terms so accommodating that none need deny themselves the great advantage of owning this mine of information. Remember that the present is the only time we can call our own. We reserve the privilege of withdrawing this offer at any time. It is made as a favor to the STAR'S readers, and for the purpose of increasing our circulation. You are invited to call and examine the books, or send us your address for further particulars. Out of town subscribers can order by mail, and the books will be sent prepaid.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 8 1895

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Failure of Peace Negotiations a Foregone Conclusion.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PARIS, January 7.—The Paris edition of the Herald will print to-morrow a dispatch from Shanghai saying that China's peace envoys to Japan have been instructed not to surrender any territory. China is merely willing to concede the independence of Corea and to pay an indemnity. The failure of the negotiations is regarded in Shanghai as a foregone conclusion. Generals Chiang and Chen of Port Arthur fame, whom Li Hung Chang reported to the Government as having died heroic deaths, facing the foe, have turned up without a scratch. A rigorous inquiry doubtless will be made.

ASHEVILLE STREET RAILROAD

Sold to Satisfy a Judgment of Nine Hundred Dollars.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ASHEVILLE January 7.—A sensation was created here to day by the selling of the Asheville Street Railroad to satisfy an old judgment of nine hundred dollars. The road was purchased by C. A. Moore, who was at once put in possession of the property by the sheriff, and J. J. Martin was appointed superintendent. The road is in full running order, embracing between six and seven miles of track, and operates about ten cars, covering every portion of the city. The road was owned by New York capitalists, and a hot legal fight is anticipated.

SPOTS AND FUTURES

New York Sun's Review of the Cotton Market.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—The Sun says: Cotton declined 3 to 5 points and closed dull, with sales of 58,000 bales. Liverpool was unchanged on the spot, with a hardening tendency; futures advanced ½ point, but lost this and declined 1 to 1½ points, closing barely steady. In Manchester yarns were steady; cloths quiet. New Orleans declined 4 points, then recovered the loss and finally declined 5 points. Port receipts 50,228 bales against 63,317 this day last week and 28,016 last year. Total thus far this week 73,299 bales against 103,829 thus far last week. Receipts for the week are estimated at 210,000 to 215,000 bales against 142,000 for this week last year and 155,000 big crop years of 1891-92. Mobile was easy. Other Southern markets were quiet, and generally about steady and unchanged prices. New Orleans receipts to-morrow are estimated at 11,000 to 13,000 bales against 12,207 on the same date last week and 10,881 last year. Liberal receipts at the ports and some depression in Liverpool caused the decline here to-day.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Decline in Prices of All Products on the Chicago Board.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, January 6.—May wheat opened at 58⅛c, sold between 58⅝ and 57⅞c, closing at 58⅛@58⅝c under Saturday. Cash wheat was firm and ⅛c higher early, but later eased off and closed nominally ⅛c lower.

May corn opened at 47⅝c, sold between 48 and 47½c, closing at the inside ⅜@½c under Saturday. Cash corn steady, closing nominally weaker with the futures.

May oats closed ¼@⅜c lower than Saturday. Cash oats were steady at Saturday's quotations.

Provisions — Responding to some weakness in hogs at the yards, product was easy at the opening, but the demand seemed to be greater than there were offers and a moderate rally soon took place, after which prices held their own fairly well. At the close May pork was unchanged from Saturday, May lard 2½c higher and May ribs a shade higher.

SERIOUS SHOOTING

Between a Georgia Farmer and His Son—The Latter Killed.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.]

SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 7.—A serious shooting affair occurred in the Northern part of Charlton county, near Buffalo, Ga., last night, in which Champ Johns was shot in the leg by his son Frank, Champ, who returned the fire, killing Frank instantly. A messenger who reached this place after 12 o'clock last night reports that Mr. Johns' leg will probably have to be amputated. The trouble was caused by family disputes, arising from the attentions of a young neighbor to Champ Johns' daughter.

MADE AN OFFER.

The Rumored Purchase of the Macon Road by the S. A. L.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, January 7.—Mr. Alexander Brown, of the banking house of Alexander Brown & Sons, chairman of the Macon & Northern Railroad bondholders' committee said: "It is true that the Seaboard Air Line has made an offer for the Macon road, but that is far as the matter has gone. The Central Railroad and Banking Co. of Georgia has also made an offer for the property. The Macon & Northern would be a good feeder for either the Central or Seaboard line. The bondholders are in possession of the Macon & Northern and have full power to sell.

NAVAL STORES MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, January 6.—Spirits turpentine active and firmer at 28@29c. Rosin quiet and steady; strained common to good $1 35@1 40.

CHARLESTON, January 7.—Spirits turpentine dull, nothing doing; receipts 20 casks. Rosin firm; good strained $1 00; receipts 285 barrels.

SAVANNAH, January 7—Spirits turpentine, 26¼c paid for regulars; sales 50 casks; receipts 307 casks. Rosin firm; sales 5,000 barrels; prices unchanged.

CONGRESS YESTERDAY.

SENATOR RANSOM ELECTED PRESIDENT PRO TEM. OF THE SENATE.

The Nicaragua Canal Bill Debated—Both Houses Adjourn Upon Announcement of the Death of Representative Post, of Illinois.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 7.—In the absence of Vice-President Stevenson and of Senator Harris, President pro tem of the Senate, the Secretary called the Senate to order and asked what its further pleasure was. Thereupon Mr. Gorman offered a resolution declaring "In the absence of the Vice-President and the President pro tem., Mr. M. W. Ransom, a Senator from the State of North Carolina, be, and he hereby is, chosen President pro tem. of the Senate."

The resolution was agreed to, and Mr. Ransom, escorted by Mr. Blackburn, walked to the Secretary's desk, where the oath of office was administered to him by Mr. Morrill, the oldest member of the Senate.

In taking the Chair Mr. Ransom said: "Senators, I thank you sincerely for this expression of your confidence. But it is due to myself to say that on the return of the distinguished Senator from Tennessee, who has been elected pro tempore of the Senate, I shall ask to be relieved from this position and the Senator who has discharged his duties as Presiding Officer with so much ability and with so much satisfaction to the Senate and country, shall be returned to the place."

Mr. Bate stated that his colleague, Senator Harris, was necessarily absent, and would be back in Washington in a few days.

Mr. Ransom left the Chair in a few minutes and called Mr. manderson to it.

The Nicaragua Canal bill was taken up as the unfinished business, Mr. Mitchell (Rep., Ore.) making an argument in its favor. He declared, in conclusion, that the construction of the Nicaragua Canal was a question in which there was no partisan or sectional division, on which all parties and sections might meet harmoniously and hold common council for the common good. He believed that the pending bill would insure the early construction of the canal and its maintenance under the Government of the United States.

Mr. Pascoe obtained the floor and the bill went over till to-morrow.

A communication from the Secretary of State in reply to a resolution of the Senate was read and laid on the table stating that "Mr. J. W. Foster in assisting China in peace negotiations with Japan, sustains no official or other relation to the United States."

A message from the House announcing its action in relation to the death of Representative Post, of Illinois, having been read to the Senate a resolution was offered by Mr. Palmer and agreed to, declaring that the Senate had heard the announcement with deep sensibility, and asking for a committee of five Senators to attend the funeral. Senators Palmer, Cullom, Mitchell of Wisconsin, Gallinger and Allen, (Pop., Neb.) were appointed such committee and then as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, the Senate at 3 20 adjourned till to-morrow.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House agreed to meet to-morrow night for the purpose of reading the bill providing for the certification of the pension laws.

Mr. Henderssn (Rep., Ill.) announced the death of Representative Post and offered the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the House of Representatives has heard with profound sorrow of the death of Hon. Philip Sydney Post, late a Representative from the State of Illinois.

"Resolved, That a committee of nine members of the House be appointed by the Speaker to act with such Senators as may be selected to attend the funeral of the deceased, and that as a further mark of respect the House do now adjourn."

The resolutions were agreed to and the Speaker appointed the following as a committee on the part of the House.

Messrs. Nederson, Lane, Marsh, Childs and Wheeler, of Illinois, Bynum, of Indiana, Boutelle, of Maine, Lucas, of South Dakota, and Stallings, of Alabama. The House at 12.15 adjourned until to-morrow.

CORBETT-FITZSIMMONS.

The Champion Says the Fight Will Probably Come Off September Next in Jacksonville.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., January 7.—James John Corbett, who opened an engagement at the Grand Opera House to-night, said in an interview to-day that he is anxious to fight Fitzsimmons as much for the pleasure of whipping him as for the purse. When asked of his intentions in the future Corbett said: "I shall retire from the ring after this fight with Fitzsimmons. Win or lose, I shall leave the ring after this fight. I am only going in this fight because I want to whip Fitzsimmons. We are to fight for $61,000, and I pledge you my word I would not take $45,000 cash, and call the fight off. I am willing and anxious to fight Fitzsimmons before anything or anybody in this or any other country."

Corbett was asked if he thought that the fight would ever take place.

"Of course it will," he replied, "the match has been made, the money is up, and the fight must and will come off. I think that it will come off in September next in Jacksonville. There is no law in Florida to prevent it. Gov. Mitchell used every means in his power to stop my fight with Charlie Mitchell, and was unsuccessful. That proved conclusively that the fight can be pulled off in Jacksonville. Besides, the people of Florida, and Jacksonville especially, are anxious for the fight to take place in that city on account of the immense amount of money which those who will go to see it will spend."

The champion expressed the opinion that prize-fighting will last as long as the world lasts and referred to the comparatively few men who have been killed in the prize ring. "A champion has never yet been killed," he said. "Those who have been killed are the victims of accidents."

Corbett declined to say how long he thought his fight with Fitzsimmons would last. "No one can tell how long a fight will last. It depends upon the opportunities a man gets. I cannot tell what my opponent will do when I go into a ring; therefore I can't tell what I will do nor how many rounds a fight will last."

Corbett was asked the relative positions of Fitzsimmons and Jackson as pugilists. "In Jackson's day he was a better man than Fitzsimmons ever was or ever will be," said the champion.

Simon Capps, a Norfolk sporting man, was arrested in that city yesterday to answer the charge of attempting to defraud A. W. Withers, the Gloucester man, who lost $5,000 Friday through the gold-brick swindle, out of $2,200. The warrant charges Joseph McLean with the same offence, but he has not been caught.

THE BANKING BILL.

CAUCUS OF DEMOCRATIC MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Three Hours Spent in Discussion—Crisp's Resolution That the Bill Should be Passed Adopted by a Vote of 81 to 59.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, January 7.—Three hours were spent in caucus this afternoon by the Democrats of the House. The purpose of the caucus was to secure an exchange of views regarding the Carlisle banking bill which was taken up for debate a week before the holiday recess, and which is still before the House. Mr. Holman presided and 153 members answered to their names at roll-call.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the roll-call Mr. Livingston, of Georgia, made a motion that all those present should be bound by the action of the caucus. The chamber meanwhile had been rapidly filling up with members and at the time the Livingston motion was made, fully 175 Democrats were in their seats. There was an instant chorus of "no" and a point of order was made againt it.

The Chair sustained the point of order, stating, in effect that the uniform practice of thirty years was that caucuses are advisory and not binding in their character.

Mr. Springer moved that all speeches be limited to five minutes.

Speaker Crisp took the floor and said that the Democratic party in Congress had kept its pledges. It has reformed the tariff, repealed Federal Election laws and practiced economy in appropriations. The party has differed in matters affecting currency and finances. The Secretary of the Treasury had formulated a bill. The question is, can the party agree upon something at this short session. He believed legislation should be had and that Congress should respond to the call of the Treasury and of the country. He then offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that the Carlisle currency bill should be passed by the House of Representatives substantially as presented in the substitute which had been printed in the Record and which will be offered at the proper time by the Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, and that the Committee on Rules be requested to report an order to-morrow, immediately after the reading of the Journal, which shall provide for its consideration for one more day for general debate and thereafter under the five minute rule and a final vote thereon at the earliest time practicable during this week.

Mr. Sperry, of Connecticut, moved that the pending resolution be so amended as to read that it is the sense of the caucus that the bill introduced by him shall be passed by the House.

Mr. Terry, of Arkansas, offered an amendment authorizing each State Treasurer to buy silver bullion sufficient in amount to coin a dollar for every inhabitant of the State, to present it to the United States Treasurer, the latter to coin it into silver dollars, and in turn present it to the State Treasurer.

After speeches by Messrs. Hall, of Missouri, and Brickner, of Wisconsin, Mr. Coffen, of Wyoming, offered a resolution extending the time for general debate by three days.

Speaker Crisp made a point of order against it, and the point was sustained. Mr. Crisp then demanded the previous question on the resolution introduced by him and the amendments. The previous question was ordered. The Terry amendment was first considered. It was defeated by a vote of 64 nays to 54 yeas.

The Sperry amendment was then rejected by an overwhelming majority, there being only thirteen votes in its favor.

Mr. Crisp's resolution was finally adopted by a vote of 81 to 59. The vote showed that seventy-five Democratic members of the House were not present at the caucus.

This vote and the speeches for and against the bill seemed to be differently interpreted. Mr. Springer, for example, believes that many of those who opposed the Crisp resolution to-day will support the Carlisle bill in the end, the more especially as some of them are constrained to believe it will be ended so as to be in more comformity with their sentiments. He says that to argue that the fifty-nine gentlemen who opposed the resolution will also oppose the bill would be to say that the caucus has no persuasive power, a fact which he is inclined strongly to dispute. He believes that a majority of the seventy-five absentees will also support the bill, and that it will carry by a fair majority. Other gentlemen regard the spirit displayed at the caucus as indicating the death of the measure. They say that the speeches in opposition to the bill show that the extreme silver men, as well as the opponents of free silver, with but few exceptions have joined hands in opposition to the measure, and that their opposition will be supplemented by the solid vote of the Republicans and Populists, and that as a result the measure cannot pass the House.

One of the curious incidents of the caucus was the meagre support accorded to the amendment offered by Mr. Sperry, of Connecticut, the purpose of which was to commit the caucus to an indorsement of the bill introduced by him last week to fund the greenbacks and the Treasury notes into bonds. An analysis of the vote given for this amendment shows that four of its thirteen supporters are Western men, two from Ohio and two from Wiconsin, and that the remaining nine are from the East.

Equally surprising was the large vote given to the Terry amendment which authorized the coinage by the Secretary of the Treasury of a silver dollar of 412½ grains for each inhabitant of the forty-four States and Territories. This amendment received the support of fifty-four members and was defeated by a bare majority of ten.

Mr. Crisp's resolution was divided. The second proposition was as to the limitation of debate by the Committee on Rules. The first proposition was carried by a vote of 81 ayes to 59 noes, and the second proposition without material objection. The New York members who voted for the first proposition were Messrs. Lockwood, Warner and Straus. Four others, Messrs. Cockran, Covert, Hendrix and Ryan, voted in the negative.

At 5 o'clock a motion to adjourn was made and immediately carried.

A Rio Janeiro dispatch says there was an explosion on a pleasure steamer off Nictheroy yesterday. The steamer caught fire and scores of passengers were forced to leap overboard to escape the flames. It is reported that 120 were drowned.

A joint caucus of Democrats of the Tennessee Senate and House yesterday nominated Isham G. Harris for U. S. Senator, E. S. Craig for state Treasurer, and James Harris for State Comptroller. The nominations are equivalent to election in each instence.

SOUTHERN COTTON MILLS.

The Mills Must Come to the Cotton—New England Papers Admit That the Advantages the South Has Are Numerous.

The annexed extracts from New England papers, together with brief comments on each by the Augusta Chronicle possess a special interest for those who are making efforts to build one or more cotton mills in Wilmington:

For many years the Southern press has foretold the coming of the mills to the cotton, and now the Eastern press, which laughed at Southern competition, is most unanimous in recognizing the inevitable. The Massachusetts papers are busily condemning the laws in that State restricting labor, and declare that the Massachusetts manufacturers are between the devil and the deep sea. the Bedford Mercury says:

It has been observed in the past four years the cotton industry has been growing at a remarkably rapid rate in the South. During that period the Southern States have added 1,000,000 spindles to the plant. This gain in a comparatively short time is equal to nearly all of the machinery in operation in New Bedford, and to half of the spindles which are revolving in Fall River.

Yesterday news came that another $500,000 factory was to be erected in Alabama, and it brought with it the reflection that but one mill is going up in New England, and that a concern which was launched for the purpose of testing a patent loom. Under the circumstances it isn't singular, perhaps, that corporation managers are taking a serious view of the situation. They say they are not confronted by any bugaboo, but by a condition which is real enough to demand the best thought of employers and employes alike.

It is claimed that the South possesses no natural advantages as a manufacturing centre over this section of the country. Proximity to the cotton fields is offset by the distance from the markets for the finished products. The fact remains, nevertheless, that Northern capital is travelling South and that every dollar invested down there is figuring as a competitor of the dollar in New England.

The Bedford Mercury is much mistaken in supposing there are not natural advantages in favor of manufacturing in the South. They have been repeatedly claimed in behalf of the South; but on this point we will summon an impartial witness. The Boston Advertiser says:

The advantages the South has over the North in the way of cotton manufacture are almost innumerable, and may be best illustrated by citing the case of the factories at Columbus, Ga. Here the Chattahoochee, like many other Southern rivers, affords magnificent water power, which is found to be abundant in the dryest months of Summer, and which is never locked by ice in the depths of Winter. Again, the cotton mills at this point are within sight of the fields in which the cotton is grown, and the planters can bring their baled products to the mill doors as easily as they can to the cotton yard of the agent who buys it, receiving his commission therefor and then ships it to the North or to Europe. Not only have these mills a cheap and abundant power at their command, and the raw product ready to their hands and without any cost for their transportation, but labor in the cotton mills in the South, which is invariably white, is at least 25 per cent. cheaper than that of the cotton mills of New England. The reason for this cheap labor is that it costs less to live in a land where rents are low, where fuel is cheap, where no great demands are made on earnings to guard against the inclemencies of the Winter, and where workers can live really better on their reduced wage than can those of the New England cotton mills on their higher earnings.

We refer the Bedford Mercury to its Boston contemporary for enlightenment on the subject of the South's advantages. It is very difficult for some New England papers to contemplate the South as containing intelligent, industrious and enterprising men in due proportion to its population, and the Mercury seems to think that while the East had nothing to fear from the South itself, it is now jeopardized by Yankee capital and thrift in the South. It says:

There were days, it is true, when Southern industry was not feared. It is said that the mills were small, and were run in the go-as-you-please Southern fashion. But Northern enterprise in the South is feared. At all events, there is no disposition to sneer at it in Fall River. Manufacturers there say that they do not believe that they are unduly exercised, but they are convinced that a crisis is approaching. They have been weighted down by legislation to a point where they cannot hold their own, and unless a change in public sentiment takes place they contend that they will be driven out of business. Already many of the companies that once coined profits out of coarse goods have been forced to the wall, undersold by their Southern rivals, and have been compelled to shift on to other fabrics.

For a long time the Eastern manufacturers hugged to their breasts the delusive idea that the South could manufacture only the coarse grades of cloth, but gradually their eyes are being opened to the fact that the finer grades can be made here just as well as at the North. The Mercury has also heard of this, and says:

Of late it has been discovered that a better class of goods from the South has gained a foothold in the home market. The statistics prove that the short hour bills in Massachusetts are doing their work effectively. It is held that they have not only reduced the earning capacity of machinery, but by reducing it have made room for a powerful competitor in a territory where wages are low and where few or no restrictions are placed on running time. As has frequently been explained, no objection would be raised to short hours were there no discrimination, but it is insisted that the policy at present pursued will speedily react upon the help as well as upon the capital invested.

The truth seems to have dawned upon New England with a rush, and they recognize that a crisis is at hand. It stands to reason that cotton must be manufactured where it is grown, and each year the industry is growing in scope and importance. The mills must come to the cotton.

Senator Daniels has introduced a bill in the U. S. Senate appropriating $20,000 to purchase the manuscript papers and correspondence of Thomas Jefferson.

The joint Republican caucus of both branches of the South Dakota Legislature unanimously nominated Hon. R. F. Pettigrew as his own successor to the United States Senate.
